

" See her in my eyes "

" By: Jakaelynn

It took prison bars and violence rising,
to discover whom I am. - Years of psychological isolation to free myself of that emotional and social ban!

Working and slaving in public service, always hiding whom I am ... Now my devotion and sacrifice have been discarded with the click of cuffs, and the gavel's Ringing clam.

NO MORE! Enough I say!

Why should I bend and be who you demand me to be ...
when even then your hate and blindness still force me
to FLY??

Born a "man" but always a LADY ... now
that is whom I truly am! yes sir, yes ma'am.
Will you come and stand at my side,
through a support and love?

TOGETHER HAND IN HAND

If not, then step aside...
and close your eyes...
For you shall never again control whom I am!

Can you see her in my eyes? For that is what's in my heart and soul... You're not my potter and I am not built of molding clay!
So never again will I live your ...
